📝 Introduction

Today, I worked on the Aby Inventory Management System by reintroducing the Sales Return feature, which had been previously removed. This functionality is essential for handling situations where customers return products after purchase. Bringing it back ensures that the system remains complete and fully supports real-world sales workflows.

✅ Key Tasks Completed

1. Re-added Sales Return Feature

- Restored the Sales Return module to allow admins and employees to process returned products.

- Integrated it with stock management so that returned items are automatically updated back into inventory.

- Improved UI for handling returns, ensuring the process is simple and user-friendly.

- Tested the workflow to confirm smooth operation from sale to return and stock adjustment.

📚 Summary

By reintroducing the Sales Return feature, Aby Inventory Management is now more complete and practical for daily use.

This improvement provides:

- Accurate stock tracking by updating inventory when products are returned.

- Reliable reporting by including returns in sales and financial records.

- Better customer service through a streamlined return process.

- System completeness, ensuring all major sales workflows are supported.
